

Press release

For immediate release

Lausanne, June 1st, 2026

Resilio strengthens its commitment to sustainable tech by acquiring Greenoco, the pioneering web eco-design solution

Lausanne, June 1st 2026 – Resilio, leading provider of environmental impact assessment and data solutions for the tech sector, today announced the acquisition of Greenoco, a SaaS platform specialising in measuring and reducing the carbon footprint of websites. This strategic acquisition enables Resilio to offer an end-to-end solution to its clients, incorporating a key dimension: web eco-design.

An acquisition in line with market expectations

Greenoco, founded by Mathieu Cottard in 2021, offers a solution enabling companies to manage and reduce the environmental impact of their websites via the eco-score. Its integration into the Resilio ecosystem responds to a recurring demand from clients and partners wishing to combine performance with environmental responsibility.

Amaël Parreaux-Ey, CEO and co-founder of Resilio, said: “This acquisition is a major milestone for Resilio. Greenoco perfectly complements our existing solutions, Resilio Tech (dedicated to Life Cycle Assessment) and Resilio DB (environmental impact database), with a focus on websites, and enables us to offer a comprehensive solution to our clients. We are delighted to welcome the Greenoco team and to continue this journey together with the aim of making a real difference”

Continuity and innovation for Greenoco clients

For Greenoco’s existing clients, this acquisition guarantees:

- The long-term viability of the solution and its features.

- Enhanced support, thanks to Resilio's resources and ecosystem.
- Ambitious developments: development of CI/CD connectors, an on-premise version from autumn 2026, and a roadmap co-created with users for the final quarter of 2026.

Mathieu Cottard, founder of Greenoco, adds:

"Seeing Greenoco join Resilio gives me the certainty that the commitment and work the team has put in over the last four years is taking on a new dimension. I am delighted that this technology, born of a pragmatic and effective vision of eco-design for the web, has a future. Thanks to the enhanced development capabilities and personalised support provided by Resilio, Greenoco will expand its reach. Thanks Resilio for this opportunity!"

Next steps

- Immediate integration of Greenoco into the Resilio product ecosystem.
- Refocusing the offering for key accounts, with the support of Resilio's network of commercial and non-profit partners.
- Launch of new features (CI/CD connectors, on-premise version) from autumn 2026.

About Resilio

Resilio: is a Swiss impact scale-up that supports organisations in their journey towards responsible tech

Press contact

Amaël Parreaux-Ey

CEO & co-founder of Resilio

+41 78 673 77 18 or +33 6 84 29 53 30

amael.parreaux-ey@resilio-solutions.com
